

FINAL - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASETransplace CTO recognized as one of InfoWorld's Top 25 CTO's for 2008

June 24, 2008 (Frisco, TX) – Transplace, a leading provider of transportation management services and logistics technology, announced that IDG's InfoWorld, the leading integrated media brand for IT decision makers, has named Transplace Chief Technology Officer Vincent Biddlecombe as one of InfoWorld's Top 25 CTOs for 2008. Every year since 2001, InfoWorld has honored senior IT executives who have demonstrated leadership within their companies and in the IT community.

“This year's honorees exemplify how a savvy CTO can make a huge difference in leading their business to success, whether by creating a world-class product or making a critical business priority happen the right way,” said Galen Gruman, executive editor of InfoWorld. “We were struck by how the best CTOs combined strategic technology thinking with management prowess to make their successes happen.”

Mr. Biddlecombe was selected for his superior leadership on several Transplace IT projects during the past 12 months. He led the company on four successful, key projects in 2007 including: converting Transplace's entire infrastructure to a virtual infrastructure; implementing a new disaster recovery plan; testing and deploying Business Intelligence tools; and developing a SaaS delivery process whereby customers utilize Transplace software outside of their browsers.

Under Mr. Biddlecombe's leadership, Transplace's change to a virtual infrastructure resulted in a decreased number of needed servers and significant savings on hardware costs. Virtualization has allowed Transplace to maintain its 24x7 world-class functionality, hosting, availability and reliability for its customers. Also, Transplace is now able to quickly create databases and copy them to the disaster recovery server.

“It is an honor to be recognized by a leading industry publication and selected out of a group of highly respected peers,” said Biddlecombe. “The IT projects that Transplace has completed under my leadership are proof of its dedication to innovation and continuous drive to be a leader in transportation and logistics technology solutions.”
